destination, removing the destination, editing the runtime parameters, adding a new failover destination, and sending destination commands.

For more information on managing connectors, see "Managing Connectors" on page 89.

The ConApps Tab

The ConApps tab displays all hardware and software Connector Appliances associated with the item selected in the navigation tree. For example, if you selected System in the navigation tree, the Connector Appliances tab would display all Connector Appliances in ArcSight Management Center; if you selected a Location, the tab would display all Connector Appliances in the selected location.

The Connector Appliances tab includes the following button, which operates on one or more selected Connector Appliances:

Set Configuration	Sets the configuration for selected Connector Appliances. For more information, see "Setting a Configuration on Connector Appliances" on page 89.
--------------------------	---

The Connector Appliances table displays these parameters for each Connector Appliance:

- Name: Name of the Connector Appliance.
- Path: Path to the Connector Appliance.
- Port: Port number through which the Connector Appliance is communicating.
- Version: Software version of the Connector Appliance.
- Status: Status of the Connector Appliance.
- Last Check: Date and time of last status check.
- Actions: Drop-down shows a variety of controls for executing Connector Appliance management tasks, including the following:
 - Rebooting
 - Shutting down
 - Editing or removing a configuration

For more information on Connector Appliance management, see "Managing Connector Appliances" on page 67.

The Loggers Tab

The Loggers tab displays all hardware and software Loggers associated with the item selected in the navigation tree. For example, if you selected System in the navigation tree, the Loggers tab would display all Loggers in ArcSight Management Center; while if you selected a Location, you would see all Loggers in that location.
